PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Hello Crescent Heights!

I've said it before, and I'll say it again – we seriously live in one of the best communities around. There's so much happening this season, and our calendar is filling up fast with awesome ways to get involved, meet your neighbours, and just enjoy where we live.

Mini Galleries

May/June

Swing by Rotary Park and check out "Gone Forever" – a stunning outdoor exhibit by local artist Jackie Ramsay. It features paintings of heritage homes that once stood in our neighbourhood. It's a beautiful (and bittersweet) walk down memory lane. Don't miss the exhibit launch party on May 3 at 11:30 am.

McHugh Bluff and Pathways Cleanup

May 3

Let's get outside and give our river valley and pathways some TLC! Great vibes, fresh air, and a cleaner community – what's not to love? For more information contact parcs@crescentheightssyc.ca.

Heritage Weekend Walks

May 2 to 4

Last year's heritage Jane's Walk was such a hit (hello, 80+ people joined!), we're doing even more this year! We've got heritage walks exploring century homes and local highlights in Crescent Heights – and even community art! Sign up on the Jane's Walk Calgary site and come explore with us.

Community Cleanup

May 11

It's back! Skip the landfill line and bring your unwanted items and oversized waste to the community hall/high school parking lot. It's the perfect time to clear out the garage or back alley. Head to calgary.ca/cleanup to see what you can drop off.

Stampede Breakfast

July 13

Mark your calendars – our legendary Stampede Breakfast is happening again this summer! Expect live music, pony rides, and good times all around. Want to help make the magic happen? We're looking for volunteers! Sign up at bit.ly/chca-stampede or email stampedebreakfast@crescentheightssyc.ca for more information.

While you're out and about, be sure to show some love to our local restaurants and shops.

Here's to a season full of sunshine, community spirit, and making great memories. See you out there!

Marie

WALK

Two Cleanups in May

May is our month for cleanups! This year the 58th Annual Pathway and River Cleanup will happen on Saturday, May 3. The Crescent Heights Community Cleanup is set for Sunday, May 11. We can always use extra hands at these events, so if you can lend a hand for either or both of them, please contact us at treasurer@crescentheightsyc.ca or johnmcdermid@shaw.ca.

2025 Pathway and River Cleanup

This year's Pathway and River Cleanup is scheduled over a three-day window from May 2 to 4. We have settled upon Saturday, May 3 from 10:00 am to 1:00 pm. So we'll hope for continued good weather and meet by the river on Saturday the 3rd.

Our river reach is from 4 Street NE to Centre Street, River Left, or the near (north) bank of the Bow. We hope to see some of our regulars out on the pathway. Crescent Heights has been tackling this river reach for more than 20 years! Let us know if you can join us so we can get a sense of our numbers for securing supplies. We'll meet down by the river at the Reconciliation Bridge and work our way westward to Centre Street.

2025 Crescent Heights Community Cleanup on May 11 - Mother's Day

Our very popular annual Crescent Heights Community Cleanup is now set for Sunday, May 11 from 9:00 am until 2:00 pm. If you can volunteer for the cleanup, we can certainly use your help, and being on site gives you the first pick of the FREE Store's treasures (see below). The City recommends having 15 to 20 volunteers on site, as community cleanup events are increasingly popular and draw people from across the city. The more people we have to direct traffic and activity on site, the better our traffic flow and cycle time will be.

We have contacted our third-party vendors and have made arrangements to accept metals and electronics as we have in past years, plus gently used household items for the Women in Need Society (WINS).

What's the Same for 2025?

Same place: CHCA Community Hall, enter from 2 street NW at 11 Avenue. Packer trucks will be positioned to accept household waste and stuff that may not fit in your black cart. Volunteers will be on hand to direct the traffic flow and keep things moving. Remember to stream recyclables to your blue cart or to a neighbourhood depot so we're not sending recyclable materials to a landfill. Similarly, yard waste and organics should be disposed of through the green cart program or the City's Spring Yard Waste Program that runs from April 11 to June 1. Hazardous waste products (paints, chemicals, etc.) should be disposed of at a designated firehall or landfill equipped for those materials. No concrete rubble can be accepted because it damages the equipment. No glass, please! No microwave ovens and no batteries. Make sure your load is properly secured and tarped en route to the hall. Please be prepared to unload your own materials: volunteers will be on hand but only to manage the traffic flow on site. City staff are there only to operate the equipment. Unload as quickly as you can to keep things moving. And please don't bring materials and drop them before or after the event, we'll be watching!

The FREE Store will be in operation once again to help gently used items with life left in them find new homes. Goods that are not claimed will be loaded into the trucks in the last half-hour of the event. If you can help with this effort, please come to the site around 1:30 pm to help us clean up and close up.

Our event runs from 9:00 am until 2:00 pm, but we will be monitoring our traffic volume and flow and may have to cut the line off at about 1:30 pm to get the last vehicles through the site by 2:00 pm, so we are not keeping our trusted City staff past their time: remember that they are volunteering their time too!

Can't wait for May 11? The city-wide Community Cleanup program kicked off in April and events are scheduled at different communities across the city in the spring, summer, and autumn. Bear in mind that the Cleanups are increasingly popular, and some events involve significant wait time to unload. Visit calgary.ca/csp/abs/partnership-programs/community-cleanups.html for dates, times, and locations.

CANADIAN UNICORNS

Around 75% of the world's narwhal population calls the northern waters of Nunavut, Canada, home. These real-life "sea unicorns" thrive in our Arctic waters, especially in the summer months. How magical!

Crescent Heights kicked off March with the grand opening of our brand-new outdoor skating rink! The event was a festive celebration, featuring a ribbon-cutting ceremony with special guests Mike Vernon, Dana Murzyn, Sheila Taylor, and Harvey the Hound. Attendees enjoyed live entertainment, fun activities, and delicious offerings from local food trucks. A heartfelt thank you to the BIA, Agni Restaurant, and EnMax for their generous door prizes that added to the excitement.

A big shout-out to the incredible organizations whose funding made our Rink project a reality:

Calgary Flames Rink Award/Parks Foundation Calgary
Daryl K. Seaman Canadian Hockey Fund at Calgary Foundation
The City of Calgary – Capital Conservation Grant
Government of Alberta –Community Facility Enhancement Program
Federation of Calgary Communities and Energizing Spaces by En/Max

It was a perfect way to come together to enjoy the outdoors and each other.

Mini Galleries: “Gone, But Not Forgotten?”

Over the years, many of the houses built in Crescent Heights in the early 1900s have been torn down and replaced with modern structures. Luckily, local artist Jackie Ramsey has been busy capturing these, and many of the century-old houses still standing, in her 100 Storeys painting project (also available in a book of 100 prints.)

Six of these “Gone Forever” houses are featured in the Rotary Park Mini Galleries in May and June. Do you know who built these homes, and who lived in them over the last century? Send your stories to minigalleries@crescentheightssyc.ca and we'll add them to our Crescent Heights history collection: 208 8 Ave NE; 219 2 Ave NE; 325 8 Ave NE; 620 2 St NE; 215 4 Ave NE; 235 14 Ave NE.

Join Jackie on May 3 at 11:30 am, for a Jane's Walk tour featuring these six lost heritage houses and to hear more about her “100 Storeys” project. After the tour, we'll have refreshments to ensure you have enough energy to join the Heritage Houses tour, starting at 1:00 pm. For more information contact minigalleries@crescentheightssyc.ca.

BOOK REVIEW BY JUDITH UMBACH

The Bloodless Boy* by Robert J. Lloyd

From the traditional perspective, the mystery in The Bloodless Boy is "Who killed the boy?". The mystery of that age was, "How does the body work?".

The time is 1678. The English civil war has been over for many years; Charles II sits uneasily on the throne. Author Robert J. Lloyd incorporates many historical characters in this tale of political disruption and brooding insurrection. Medical science seethes with new ideas promulgated by society's revered philosophers, for at the time medicine was more philosophy than science. Medical advancement was enticing, unregulated, and thoroughly class ridden.

Nobody cared about the life of the bloodless boy. After all there were so many boys in London, and there had been a number of bloodless boys already found in London over a fairly short period of time. The more intriguing question was, "What was the purpose of draining a body of its blood?". Transfusion was the obvious answer, because transfusion was a new technology, applied during the civil war to preserve the life of important members of the army. All to disastrous consequences – death in agony.

In the case of bloodless boys, the scientific process was evident, because each of the four drainage holes made in the bodies was marked with the date of extraction, over a period of days or weeks. Now that we know how transfusions actually work, this early crude practice is horrifying. On the other hand, a similar process to empty infection from one of the prominent characters did work, albeit clumsily.

Robert Hooke, Curator of Experiments of the Royal Society for the Improving of Natural Knowledge, and his assistant, Harry Hunt, Observer of the Royal Society, are called in by the king himself to answer the mysteries of the bloodless boy, in particular the identity of the perpetrator. Time is short, because supporters of the parliamentary factions are fomenting unrest in the general population. Word of this diabolical practice is being spread ferociously as a way to set the mob against the king.

Harry's scientific and personal scruples make him strangely immune to power and its corruptions. Against advice, and indeed against explicit instructions, Harry follows the trail of facts and evidence. His physical well-being is jeopardized over and over, but that doesn't concern him much, since he always manages to avoid disaster. He does solve the mystery of who killed the boy, and he rejects the temptation of taking power.

The Paradoxical Role of China

by Stephanie Ho Lem, CHCA Director of Living Green

Further to my last article in March on the Paris Agreement, I asked if the U.S. leaves the Paris Agreement, what role will it play in shaping its future on climate change. The newly elected President soon after his inauguration, wasted no time in signing executive orders, one of which is to exit the Paris Agreement. His reasoning was that the Paris Agreement was one-sided, and that cutting climate pollution doesn't work unless everyone does it.

As he was signing executive orders, Los Angeles was experiencing one of its worst wildfires devastating an entire community, and relatively new in peoples' minds, the world had experienced the hottest temperatures ever recorded in 2024. These events were all climate change related.

The U.S. had traditionally taken a key leadership role at global climate summits, pushing countries like China to do more to cut their emissions faster. China is the largest greenhouse gas emitter while the U.S. is the second largest.

With the U.S. withdrawing from the 2015 Paris accord on climate change, China has been positioning itself as a green leader and taking initiatives aimed at achieving its goal of carbon neutrality by 2060 including investing in renewable energy and leading the world in electric vehicles and batteries.

According to the United Nations' top climate official Simon Stiell, executive secretary of U.N. Climate Change, "China must step up and help lead the fight against climate change, starting with a strong new climate target".

The last ten years have seen China surpass expectations in many areas of the low-carbon transition. In 2023, clean power made up 35% of China's electricity mix, with hydro the largest single source of clean power at 13%. Wind and solar hit a new record share of 16%. Fossil fuels still provide 61% of the world's electricity, but the extraordinary growth of solar and wind has helped to slow the growth in fossil fuels.

Growth in "new energy vehicles" (NEVs) has been another highlight. In 2023, 9.5 million were sold in China, representing over 60% of global sales. Ouyang Minggao, a member of the Chinese Academy of Sciences, has publicly stated that 100 million NEVs are expected to be on China's roads by 2030.

Despite still being the world's largest emitter of greenhouse gases, responsible for a third of the world's emissions. China has no choice, this positioning however strategic, is coming out of necessity. Some say it's paradoxical. China is positioning itself as a global leader and capitalizing on the opportunity to fill a void left by the U.S. on the world stage, analysts say.

SAFE AND SOUND

Window and Balcony Safety

by Alberta Health Services

With the return of warmer weather, Emergency Medical Services (EMS) would like to remind parents and caregivers of an often-overlooked hazard in the home – access to open windows. Every year, paramedics respond to emergencies where a child has fallen from an open window, often from the second floor. These can be avoided by following safety measures. Take the time to assess potential hazards in your home before a preventable fall occurs.

Windows and Screens

- Prevent access to windows by moving furniture such as cribs, beds, stools, and change tables out from under them.
- Keep drapery cords out of children's' reach. Wrap excess cord around cleats or tie-downs to avoid a choking hazard.
- Remember, screens are not safety devices. They are designed to keep bugs out, not children in.

Balconies

- Do not underestimate a child's ability to climb. Furniture and other items stored on balconies and decks can be used to climb resulting in falls over the railing.
- Ensure that your balcony railings are not more than 10 cm (4 inch) apart. This will eliminate access between the vertical bars of a balcony or deck.

Further Prevention Tips

- Toddlers and preschoolers are at highest risk of falling from a window or balcony, but it may happen at any age.
- Direct supervision of children is the single most effective way to prevent falls from windows and balconies.
- Install safety devices which limit the distance in which a window can open to a maximum of 10 cm (4 inches).
- Ensure the safety device can be released quickly, so the window can be used for escape in case of emergency.
- Consider purchasing a portable air conditioner, which will enable windows to stay closed and secure.

EMS is proud to be a member of the Partners Promoting Window and Balcony Safety. Take time to assess your home for window and balcony hazards and eliminate the risks before a preventable fall occurs.
