GRANDPARENT SCAM ALERT

WHAT IS THE SCAM?

Scammers are calling seniors claiming to be family members in need of immediate money for bail or hospital expenses.

The scammer will often send someone to the door to pick up payment.

BAIL FACTS:

- Police, lawyers, judges or jails do not call people to get money.
- Bail/ fines are typically paid at a courthouse, police station or jail.
- Bail in Alberta is typically $10-$500.
- Bail can't be paid using gift cards.

"Court appointed" couriers don't exist. If someone asks to come to your home to pick up payment, it's a scam.

If it has to be now, it has to be no. Using fear or high-pressure tactics are usually a red flag.

Always ask for proof of identification and call-back numbers. Talk to family, friends or other people you trust to help verify claims or requests.

Bow River, Bow River, O where is your quiver
Where are the arrows you hide deep inside
Take aim for the moon, let them fly thru the heavens
Shooting like stars over Calgary skies

Bow River, Bow River, melt of glaciers deliver
Water flows pure from the mountaintops high
Your destiny's duty to guard and protect it
Transporting for all under big prairie sky

Bow River, Bow River, always generous giver
Jubilation you bring to Alberta's dry land
For water is life, you bestow of it freely
Grateful animals drink from the palm of your hand

Bow River, Bow River, mighty warrior consider
While forward you lead, we'll be watching your back
To be perfectly clear, we can't take you for granted

What Is a Boundary Really? Understanding the Rules We Set for Ourselves

by Nancy Bergeron, R.Psych | info@nancybergeron.ca

When most of us hear the word boundary, we tend to think of rules we place on other people: “Don’t speak to me like that,” or “You can’t come over without asking first.” But in truth, boundaries aren’t rules for others—they’re rules for ourselves. They define our comfort zone, and they guide our actions when someone crosses a line we’ve drawn.

“A boundary means you are responsible for what’s in your yard, which would be your thoughts, your feelings, your actions, and your opinions,” explains Dana Skaggs, therapist. “And your neighbours also have a right to their thoughts, their feelings, their opinions, and their actions.” In other words, you tend your own garden—and you don’t try to control what someone else grows in theirs.

This is one of the most empowering (and humbling) aspects of boundaries: they remind us that we don’t get to control others. We can’t force people to think like us, behave in ways we prefer, or rescue them from their own beliefs. What we can do is make choices about how we’ll respond when someone acts in ways that don’t feel good to us.

That’s where the real work of boundaries begins. As therapist Laura Vladimirova puts it: “There’s no boundary without internal consequence.” It’s not enough to say, “I don’t want you to come over unannounced anymore.” The assumption might be that the person will simply comply. But what if they don’t? That’s when the boundary is tested—not when it’s spoken, but when it’s ignored. Do we let them in anyway? Ask them to leave and come back later? Decide to spend less time with them moving forward? Our boundary is only as strong as the action we’re willing to take when it’s crossed.

An example of this could be for a romantic relationship. We have a list of behaviours that make us uncomfortable, and we would leave the relationship if those boundaries weren’t respected. In practice, what they demonstrate is this core truth: a boundary includes a limit and a consequence. We are clear on what we would do if our boundaries weren’t respected.

This principle applies just as much in parenting. Parents often think of boundaries as rules for their children: “Put your shoes on before going outside.” But children test rules—that’s what they do. The real boundary isn’t whether the child follows the rule, but how the parent responds when they don’t. Do you put the shoes on for them if they don’t? That’s the boundary in action: your response, not their behaviour.

Another common misunderstanding is that boundary violations should always result in cutting someone off. “Sometimes, with boundaries, we think the most severe consequence is what’s always needed,” says therapist Nedra Tawwab. However, if we ejected every person who crossed a line, we’d be left with very few relationships. Realistically, the first time someone violates a boundary, a reminder may be all that’s needed. The second time, you might take space or limit contact. Only in cases of repeated violations or extreme harm do more permanent consequences become necessary.

Ultimately, boundaries are an act of personal responsibility. They require clarity, consistency, and courage—not control. They aren’t about changing other people. They’re about protecting our own well-being and honouring our own limits, even when others don’t. And that’s where true empowerment lies.

Achievement Day

by Morgan Reynaud, Prairie Winds 4-H Club Reporter

We were all excited for the 4-H Achievement Day at Confluence Plaza! The countdown was on! Our 4-H club geared up for one of the biggest days of our year—Achievement Day. This event happened Saturday, June 14 at Confluence Plaza on St. Patrick's Island.

This year's achievement day was in a market-style open house. The public was happily invited to come see our displays, check out our posters and presentations, and experience firsthand our 4-H club, our creativity, and the growth of all our members. Everyone has been working hard towards it all year. From skits and storytelling to having project highlights and interactive shows, there's something for everyone! Whether you're a past 4-H member or just curious about what we're all about.

Achievement Day is a showcase of what all our members are learning, a show of leadership, and community service throughout the year. It's a space where children get a fair say, speak out, and show off the amazing things they've been exploring with confidence and pride.

So, thank you all for bringing your support and coming to see what our wonderful members have done this year!

Connect: Calgary's Parks Plan replaced the Open Space Plan and the Natural Areas Management Plan. Calgarians have historically and consistently had a strong desire for the inclusion of natural areas as Open Space. As early as 1914, The Mawson Plan recommended protection for the riverbanks. In the 1940s, the public wanted natural park environments to be preserved. Little or no management was considered. In the early 1970s, The Calgary Bird Club assessed several natural areas, including East and West Nose Hill, before specific natural areas management policies were identified. By 1980, City Council adopted the first Nose Hill Park Master Plan, to ensure that natural habitat would remain for wildlife species that use it. The Nose Hill Biophysical and Land Use Inventory was a major project, but any unexpected problem or difficulty was beyond its scope. Instead, The Nose Hill Park Management Advisory Committee was followed by the Nose Hill Park Trail and Pathway Plan.

The Natural Areas Management Plan called for long-term conservation methods to support appropriate public uses. Some activities were dog walking, hiking trails, and weed control. For Nose Hill, as a Major Natural Environment Area, there were guidelines about grazing, wildlife, signage, fallen trees, and brush. As in all Natural Environment Parks, the approach was based on habitat types, with the general principles being fire management, life cycling, planting, restoration, and reclamation. To communicate the aims of protection, management, and permitted uses in a natural environment park, staff training and public education were planned, so as to share information regarding natural areas and natural history in Calgary. The plan was to evolve, with more research and new techniques for managing urban natural areas, as the public perception of Open Space changed, not only in Alberta but across North America.

What Are Imaging Tests?

by Alberta Health Services

Imaging tests (also called diagnostic imaging tests) let your healthcare team look for clues inside your body. They can help your doctor find out what's making you feel unwell and find disease early, even when you don't feel sick. Your healthcare team uses the results of your imaging tests along with other information to find out what's causing a health problem (called a diagnosis).

Each type of imaging test shows different details and information about the organs and structures in your body. Your healthcare team chooses which imaging test you need based on your symptoms and the part of your body they want to look at. They'll often send you for more than one type of imaging test to help them understand the problem or cause of your symptoms.

How Imaging Tests Are Done

Imaging tests use different types of machines and procedures to take pictures of the inside of your body. These tests show what your organs and structures look like. And some even show how well they're working. The information from imaging tests helps you and your healthcare team decide the care and treatment that's best for you.

Many imaging tests are quick, painless, and easy. Some tests are done while you're lying inside of a machine. Imaging tests can be very short, and others take longer to do.

Some imaging tests use a small amount of radiation and others don't. Most imaging tests are non-invasive, but some are minimally invasive. Your healthcare team will let you know if your test is non-invasive or minimally invasive. Non-invasive means your healthcare team doesn't put a tool or device inside your body. Minimally invasive means your healthcare team passes a tool or device through a small cut in your skin during a test or procedure.

Your healthcare provider will give you instructions for how to prepare for your test. Be sure to follow the instructions carefully.

Imaging Tests and Your Health and Safety

Some imaging tests use radiation (a wave of energy), and contrast dye. Image-guided test may also use sedation or anaesthesia (medicine to numb an area or make you sleepy and comfortable). When you or your child has one of these tests, you might have questions about health and safety.

Your imaging healthcare team will watch you closely to keep you safe. Ask them any questions you have about health and safety. You can also talk to your healthcare provider to learn more about safety and imaging tests.

The Healthcare Team

When you have an imaging test, you'll meet a technologist. Technologists are healthcare professionals who work in a diagnostic imaging department. They're often the ones who use the equipment and machines to do your test. They make sure the pictures show the right amount of detail and information to help the radiologist make a diagnosis.

Radiologists are doctors who work in a diagnostic imaging department.

- Diagnostic radiologists diagnose diseases. They look at your test results and let other doctors know what they find.
- Interventional radiologists treat diseases with therapeutic imaging procedures. They use imaging tests to guide needles, probes, or other tools inside the body.

Diagnostic imaging departments may also include nurses. Nurses help prepare you for your procedure, support the radiologist, and keep you as comfortable as possible during the procedure. They're also the healthcare team members who watch you as you recover after any type of imaging test or procedure.

BBQ Beef Patties on Buns

by Jennifer Puri

Alfalfa can be termed a super food due to its remarkable antioxidant properties. Antioxidants are highly effective against inflammation and may help protect cells from damage.

Alfalfa sprouts are made from germinated alfalfa seeds. These small stringy sprouts are filled with nutrients and are a good source of protein, fibre, vitamins, and minerals.

Alfalfa, radish, broccoli, kohlrabi, or red and green cabbage sprouts are all healthy and can be added to a sandwich, salad, soup, smoothie, or an omelette.

Alfalfa sprouts not only add a crunchy texture to any dish but can also make a dish look “gourmet” as shown in the BBQ Beef Patties on Buns recipe below.

Prep Time: 20 minutes

Cook Time: 10 minutes

Servings: 4

Ingredients:

- 1 lb lean ground beef
- ½ cup fine dry breadcrumbs
- ½ tsp. coarsely ground black pepper
- 1 egg
- ⅓ cup barbeque sauce
- 2 tsps. finely chopped parsley
- 4 slices mozzarella cheese
- 4 hamburger buns

Toppings:

- Red onion
- Lettuce leaves
- Mayonnaise
- Mustard
- Alfalfa or radish sprouts

Directions:

1. In a medium size bowl mix together ground beef, egg, breadcrumbs, barbeque sauce, chopped parsley and black pepper until mixture is smooth.

2. Divide the mixture into 4 equal size portions and form balls. Flatten the balls into ¾ inch patties on a cutting board. Use your thumb to create a depression in the centre of each patty which helps to keep them in shape while cooking.
3. Oil the grilling grates and then grill the patties, covered, on medium high heat or until brown on the first side about 5 to 6 minutes.
4. Flip the patties and continue cooking for a few more minutes until desired doneness is reached. Use a meat thermometer to check the internal temperature of the patties aiming for at least 160 degrees Fahrenheit.
5. Top each patty with a slice of mozzarella cheese and allow cheese to melt.
6. Slice buns in half and toast on the grill if desired. Spread a little mayo and mustard followed by lettuce leaves, onion slices, and patties on one half of the buns then top with alfalfa sprouts and remaining half buns. Serve with French or sweet potato fries if desired.

Healthcare

Alberta's government is investing nearly $25 million in grants to support innovative community-led projects that improve access to primary health care. These grants reflect key recommendations from the MAPS report and aim to build a stronger, more responsive primary health care system for Albertans.

Alberta's government is extending the Alberta Lung Cancer Screening Program with a one-year $2 million grant supported by an additional $500,000 from the Alberta Cancer Foundation. Additionally, $3 million will be distributed across four organizations through the Cancer Research for Screening and Prevention grant program. Alberta's government is committed to ensuring Albertans have access to the best cancer care.

Education

Alberta's population is growing and with it comes increasing pressures on the province's school system. Our government is working to build and renovate more schools so we can keep up with increased student enrollment and will speed up the delivery of 11 previously announced school projects, including two in Calgary, through the School Construction Acceleration Program (SCAP). Since the introduction of the program in 2024, a total of 33 previously announced school projects have been approved to move forward to the next stage of the construction process. SCAP is backed by a generational investment of $8.6 billion to build and renovate more than 100 schools, which will create 200,000 student spaces across the province. The provincial government is investing $50 million to provide modular classrooms to 19 school boards. This funding will produce 50 new modular classrooms and relocate 19 others to provide more than 1,650 new and relocated student spaces in Alberta's fastest growing communities.
