Thankfulness in the Everyday

by Rebecca Pink

October invites us to think about gratitude and all the things that we are grateful for. It can be meaningful to pause and reflect on the moments that stay with us, and become a part of us. So often, they aren't the big, planned out moments, or the stuff you have accumulated over time. Have you ever noticed that some of the moments you're most grateful for, are often the simplest, most spontaneous, or most genuine ones?

Sometimes, what stays with us is the feeling of an experience more than the experience itself. The laughter, the unexpected conversation, a great meal together, and in my house, the beautiful messiness of everyday life. These are the memories that stay with us, not because they were perfect, but because they were lived. They become the treasures that never gather dust, quietly weaving themselves into our stories.

The challenge is that when we're busy, overwhelmed, or anxious, our attention can so easily move toward what's next. We anticipate, plan, problem-solve, and manage, sometimes leaving less room to notice what is happening right in front of us. We can spend so much time anticipating the future, or reliving the past, that we can miss what is happening right in front of us. There is nothing unusual about this; our minds are simply trying to keep up with the demands of life.

Being present doesn't always come naturally; it takes intention. Sometimes it is as simple as putting down the phone, taking a deep breath, looking around, and allowing ourselves to actually take in what is happening. This may be part of the experience of thankfulness, too. Not simply identifying what we appreciate but being present enough to experience it.

As thanksgiving approaches, maybe we don't need to search for something extraordinary to be grateful for. Maybe we simply need to slow down enough to notice what is already here.

An ordinary moment can become a lasting memory, one that still makes you smile years later and brings you back to the people and the experiences that matter most. Looking back, those are often the moments I feel most thankful for. Happy Thanksgiving and Happy Spooky Season!

Halloween Safety

by Alberta Health Services

As a supporter of Calgary's Child Magazine's Partners for Safety initiative, Emergency Health Services (EHS) Alberta would like to remind parents and trick-or-treaters of important Halloween safety tips as October 31 approaches.

Partners for Safety vehicles will be out patrolling communities on Halloween night to provide a visible safety resource for parents and trick-or-treaters.

Trick-or-Treaters

- Remember: all regular pedestrian rules still apply. Be sure to cross the road at marked crosswalks or at well-lit corners. It is safest to work your way up one side of the street and then cross once to the other side.
- You may choose to avoid houses that are not well lit. Do not accept rides from strangers or enter any home where you feel unsafe.
- Let your parents know where you are going and what route you plan to take. Let them know if you will be late returning home.

Parents

- Be certain that an adult accompanies young trick-or-treaters. Older children should stay in groups.
- Predetermine the boundaries for trick-or-treating and establish a time for children to return home.
- Advise children not to eat anything until they return home. Dispose of any items that have been tampered with or are not properly wrapped.

Costumes

- Choose brightly coloured costumes that are highly visible. Adding reflective tape to costumes can further increase visibility.
- Consider sending your children with a flashlight for additional safety and visibility.
- When purchasing or making costumes, look for materials and accessories labelled flame-resistant.
- All costume accessories, such as sticks, rods, or wands, should be soft and flexible, with no sharp edges.
- Consider using hypoallergenic makeup instead of masks that may impair breathing or vision.
- Be sure costumes are loose enough to be worn over warm clothing, but not so long that they become a tripping hazard. Costumes should not extend below your child's ankles.

- Ensure your child is wearing adequate footwear that takes the weather conditions and walking into consideration.

Divorce—Business Income is Personal Income

by Christopher Bungay, Divorce Lawyer

In many divorces, one spouse is the owner/operator of a business. In these families, the line between business income and personal income is often blurred. Many business owners (intentionally or not) often use their company credit cards and corporate money to pay for personal family and home expenses. As a result of this, the personal tax returns of a business owner often do not reflect their true personal income.

In the above scenario, the personal tax return of a business owner might show a very low amount of personal income, while their business tax return can show a very high amount of corporate earnings. It is also common to see personal expenses counted as “business expenses” on business tax returns. This is sometimes done intentionally so that CRA will think the business earns less and thus would be taxed less than it otherwise should be.

The mixing of personal/business income and expenses can cause significant problems in divorce cases. The amount a spouse must pay for child support and spousal support is often based on his or her reported personal income. A spouse who owns a business sometimes uses a false lower income amount on a personal tax return to argue they should pay a lower amount of support. Unfortunately, in many cases, the actual personal earnings power of the spouse is hidden within the business income.

Judges and divorce lawyers are keenly aware of situations where business owners try to muddle their personal and business income. Fortunately, the law can protect vulnerable spouses and children in these cases. If a judge believes that a spouse is hiding income within a company, the business income can be used as the correct amount for determining support payments. Similarly, the law gives judges power to examine business expenses to ensure these are not actually personal expenses. In an Alberta divorce case, if a spouse is self-employed, he or she must demonstrate their business expenses are reasonable and that they are truly business expenses. If a self-employed spouse cannot show their business expenses are reasonable, a judge can add these expenses back into the spouse's income amount. In these situations, the higher income level, after adding back in the unreasonable expenses, is used to determine that spouse's support obligations.

It is also important to remember that many business-owning spouses are not intentionally hiding their income. The mixing of personal and business income can result from someone not understanding tax laws. Sometimes, a business owner is just too busy and is not paying enough attention to their personal/business spending patterns. However, whether intentional or not, divorce law is clear: business income and business expenses can both be used to determine the true personal earning power of a spouse.
