February Is Heart Month

by Alberta Health Services

Do you know the signs and symptoms of a heart attack and what to do if someone experiences these? Knowing may make the difference between life and death. Recognizing and responding immediately to the warning signs of a potential heart attack may significantly improve survival and recovery. February is Heart Month: take the time to be heart safe and learn how you can reduce your risk.

Common Signs of a Heart Attack

(Any, or all, of these signs and symptoms may occur)

- Chest discomfort described as simply a mild pressure up to a 'crushing' pain; may also be 'squeezing' or a 'heavy' sensation.
- Discomfort may move to the shoulders, arm, neck, or jaw.
- May include shortness of breath, sweating, or nausea/vomiting.
- Signs may vary person to person and can differ between men, women, and the elderly.

Heart Attack Risk Factors

- Obesity*
- Sedentary lifestyle*
- Smoking*
- High cholesterol*
- Age/Gender
- Family history

Speak with your doctor about how to treat your modifiable (*) risk factors and learn to be heart safe.

What To Do When Seconds Count

- Call 9-1-1, immediately. Early treatment can greatly reduce heart damage and be the difference between life and death.
- Treatment starts the moment EMS arrives. Paramedics can provide oxygen, start an intravenous, and perform an electrocardiogram (ECG).
- Paramedics can also administer important medication(s) in the early minutes of a heart attack to lessen heart damage.
- During transport, EMS will share information with the hospital so that definitive treatment can begin immediately upon arrival.
- Take a CPR/AED course. Training is widely available from many reputable organizations. It's easy and could make a significant difference in the outcome of someone experiencing a heart attack.

Staying in Relationships Thinking the Other Person Will Change, Now What?

by Nancy Bergeron, R.Psych. | info@nancybergeron.ca

In romantic relationships, the hope that someone will change is incredibly common, and very human. Here's the why:

We fall in love with potential, not just reality. Early connection, chemistry, and shared dreams can make us focus on who someone could be rather than who they consistently are.

Love activates optimism and attachment. Attachment bonds naturally create hope. Our nervous system prefers security over loss, so we hold onto the idea that change will come rather than face the pain of disappointment or separation.

We confuse influence with control. Healthy relationships do involve growth and compromise, but that can slide into the belief that love, patience, or suffering will eventually motivate change in areas that are actually character-based or deeply ingrained.

Familiar patterns feel safer than unfamiliar outcomes. Even dissatisfaction can feel safer than the uncertainty of leaving—especially if someone grew up adapting to others or earning love by tolerating discomfort.

Cultural narratives reinforce it. We're taught that love "fixes," that commitment means endurance, and that leaving equals failure rather than discernment.

Acceptance doesn't mean approval. It means clearly seeing who someone is right now, and asking: Can I live peacefully with this if it never changes? If the answer is no, the work isn't to force acceptance—it's to honor that truth. Real intimacy grows when we choose people for who they are, not who we hope they'll become.

Here are practical ways to shift your inner narration and cultivate acceptance of your partner—without abandoning your own needs or values (unless the situation is unsafe or abusive):

1. Separate “preferences” from “deal-breakers”

Narration shift: “I don’t like this” to... “This is uncomfortable, but not unsafe or violating.”

2. Replace fantasy with reality statements

Narration shift: “They would be perfect if...” to... “This is who they are today, consistently.”

3. Translate irritation into meaning

Ask: What does this trigger in me; fear, unmet needs, old wounds?

Narration shift: “They’re the problem” to... “This brings up something important in me.”

4. Use compassion without justification

Narration shift: “They shouldn’t be this way” to... “I can understand why they’re this way, without agreeing or excusing.”

5. Practice present-tense acceptance language

Use phrases like: “This is what’s here right now.” or... “I don’t have to solve this today.”

6. Stop future-bargaining

Narration shift: “Once X happens, then I’ll be okay” to... “If nothing changes, how do I feel about this life?”

7. Name your choice clearly

Narration shift: “I’m stuck” to... “I am choosing to stay for now, with eyes open.”

Choice restores agency and reduces resentment.

8. Practice grief, not resistance

Acceptance often requires grieving the partner you hoped for.

Narration shift: “This shouldn’t hurt” to... “Of course this hurts.”

9. Anchor acceptance in boundaries

Narration shift: “I have to accept everything” to... “I accept who they are and I choose how close I stand.”

10. Use curiosity over judgment.

Narration shift: “They’re wrong” to... “This is different from me—what does that mean for us?”

Cupid and the Mighty Bow

by Garth Paul Ukrainetz

Cupid has a plan they say
To change the world on Valentine's Day
The opposite of nuclear war
Where love bombs fall forevermore

Projectiles full of love's sweet glow
These arrows need a Mighty Bow
Creating new reality
Great river flows thru Calgary

The arrows launch like missiles fly
Around the world they'll fill the sky
London, Moscow, Houston, Seoul
From Mighty Bow they'll reach their goal

On city streets we'll look above
The mountains shall bring peace and love
Descending to all jaded land
From Mighty Bow and angel's hand

Yes, all is fair in love and war
A cherub stands on rivershore
Lil' Cupid has a plan they say
To change the world on Valentine's Day

Face Your Stress

by Recovery Alberta – Community Health Promotion Services

Stress is typically viewed as negative; not all stress is bad and in fact, avoiding it can be more harmful. Stress is the response to a stressor that one may be experiencing. Stressors are anything in your life that causes the release of stress hormones. Some stressors in our life are unavoidable. There are three different types of stress you can experience. Let's dive deeper into each:

- 1. Positive: Yes, stress can be positive. This is short-term but helps us to adapt and build resiliency. Situations to cause this stress can include work, writing an exam, or calling someone you don't know.
- 2. Tolerable: Tolerable stress includes situations where the impact may be more serious, such as, loss of someone or divorce of parents, and can occur many times throughout your life, however, with supportive relationships, it is unlikely to have lasting negatives impacts.
- 3. Toxic: When one thinks of stress, we tend to think of this for all situations. This stress is prolonged and extreme and can result in complex outcomes without any adequate support.

Stress can impact our physical, mental, emotional, and behavioral health and it is different for everyone. It can show up as headaches, feeling tired, having trouble focusing, feeling short-tempered or lonely, having sleep issues, unable to relax, and use of unhealthy coping techniques.

Signs of stress are different for everyone but there is a need for stress to keep us alert, healthier, and more understanding human beings! So, what can you do? Mental Health Literacy has developed a toolbox to help you manage your own stress. Here are a few things to consider:

- Change: You want to change the way you think of stress. As you can see, it can be essential to tackle life's situations.
- Choose: When faced with a stressor, have a toolkit of strategies that work best for you. This can include breathing strategies or talking to others.
- Engage: If there are stressors that heighten your body's response, try incorporating planning strategies beforehand. When we face the stressor and solve the problem, we have successfully adapted and are left with a new skill!
