PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Happy October, Glendale,

Summer is over and autumn is here. I hope you like your rake; you will be spending some time together this month. The simple joy a pile of leaves brings a group of children is certainly worth pausing to appreciate. The turn of the season brings not only a changing landscape but also renewed energy within our association. This past September 10, we held our Annual General Meeting—a wonderful gathering of neighbours committed to shaping our community's future. We received some great questions and are committed to making further improvements in light of the conversation. I am delighted to announce the addition of two new board members, Nigel and Margaret, whose enthusiasm and fresh perspectives promise to enhance our board.

With October comes anticipation for one of our favourite events: the Halloween Party on October 25! Mark your calendars, and don't forget to visit our website for tickets (discounted for GGMCA members of course) — this event is sure to be a spooktacular evening of music, costumes, and laughter for all ages. We were near maximum capacity at last year's party so make sure to reserve your tickets in advance.

Another event at the hall, the Holiday Craft and Art Market will be held on Saturday, November 8 at the hall. Stop by during the day for some holiday shopping and supporting local makers.

By the time this newsletter hits your mailbox it will be near to Thanksgiving. I hope you and your families find time to rest, reconnect, and perhaps enjoy a harvest meal together. From all of us on the board, thank you for your ongoing support and engagement. Here's to another memorable season in Glendale. Cheers!

Take care,

Myles

If you've been away this summer and haven't seen the new mural on our west wall, come on down and check it out. Many thanks and kudos to the artist, Jessica, for the effort and creativity. We love it!

Thank you to everyone who joined our Annual General Meeting on September 10, including a few candidates for the Ward 6 nomination. It was a productive evening with plenty of lively discussion.

Popping up all over Canada and the United States, Spirit Halloween is actually the largest Halloween retailer in the United States. What a Spooky Scary Superstore!

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Memory Lane: Halloween in Glendale

Our family moved to Glendale in October 2018 and quickly learned that the Halloween dance at the community hall was a tradition not to be missed. This event introduced us to the vibrant neighbourhood that is Glendale.

Then, 2020 marked a change in the world order and kids celebrated with a social distancing parade around the rink - a very fun event, with a great turnout and agreeable weather. Neighbours rose to the challenge - full chocolate bars tied to trees and engineered slides were just some of the ingenious candy delivery systems for the trick-or-treaters.

Thankfully the dances did return to the hall with little goblins, monsters, and witches arriving ready to dance the night away. No doubt, the excitement of the season is now upon us: pumpkins on the front stoop, skeletons waving a bony-handed hello to passersby, sneaky leaves blowing into doorways left open to enjoy these last mild days. We expect the same enthusiasm for this year's dance and can't wait to see everyone at the hall in their spooky costumes. (Of course, adults too).

If you are interested in helping out this year, please contact president@myglendale.ca.

Quirky QWERTY

Have you ever wondered why keyboards are not in alphabetical order? Before modern keyboards, typewriters were the way to go! Typewriters were mechanically slower so when the keys were typed too fast, the mechanics could get jammed. To slow down typing speed and prevent such jams, Christopher Sholes designed the QWERTY keyboard to keep commonly used letter combinations separate.

Parks Foundation
Calgary

the TULA project

Let's Smell the Roses!

Article and photos by Monika Smith

Success! Naturally, Glendale is going forward as a multi-year project. Our park will change from a flowerless flat field of grass and tree-filled slopes to a festival of perennial native flowers, native shrubs, and a food forest.

We have a beautiful space, but without native flowers, we were missing out on native bees, butterflies, and other pollinators and nectar gatherers. That meant that other critters were missing. We have a very quiet park. Without caterpillars, birds have less food. Without flowers and insects, we have a meagre ecology. Where is the biodiversity?

We consulted you, residents of our community, to find out your interests and use your guidance. Starting in May, our survey received a huge response of 110. Some things were not a concern, such as, fitness stations, but park benches were important. Some were what Glendale community association could tackle: better stairs and access. Others were City issues—a sidewalk around the east and south side.

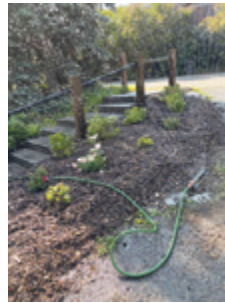

At the end of May, an engagement session of about 30 people was organized by the Tula Project. Basic designs, based on the survey results were reviewed. The engagement gave the design architects information to refine the concept that was discussed, tweaked and presented as a final concept at the AGM.

We are moving forward to work with funders, such as the Parks Foundation, and create a naturalized space that promotes beauty, wellness, and enjoyment. Pathways will meander through beds of flowering native plants, with benches and shaded areas. Trees, shrubs, and a food forest will be added, along with a scalable community garden. Water features for critters are proposed. There will also be a stage area for events, such as weddings, some storage space, and better access to the park.

The rose garden beside the stairs is now a reality! The rose garden has been planted, roots are growing, and we will start to have a wonderful showstopper for the entrance of the Hall. Lessons learned! The rose garden area was weedy, and I believed solarization would do the job to kill them off; however, there was not enough sun and heat this summer. The plastic acted like a green house. Perhaps occultation, that is, using a dark plastic or tarp would have been a better choice. There are a lot of methods to suppress weeds, and I encourage people find what works for them. Just before the AGM, good soil, was added, twelve hardy rose bushes planted and topped with mulch. Expect rose blossoms in the spring. It will be a showstopper.

The roses selected were for a variety of colours, fragrance, long-lasting blooms or repeat bloomer, having big rose hips, colourful canes, and hardiness. We have the purple blooming Hansa, red flowering Henry Kelsey; delicate light pink Morden Blushes; yellow Morden Sunrise plants; white Snow Pavement roses; and pink Therese Bugnet bushes. Enjoy and come and smell the roses in spring!

Classic Cars

1950 International Pickup

by Fred Nelson

This truck is now 75 years old and has only 48000 miles. It spent most of its life in a Quonset, down on the farm. It was a simpler time – the VIN only has three numbers. And it came with the three-on-the-tree transmission that is now a great novelty.

Chris figured he should buy it and continue to put on about the same annual mileage just playing with it. Collector Insurance on it is nickels and dimes compared to regular insurance.

If you have a classic car that you would like to see featured in the community newsletter, please reach out to Fred Nelson at 403-242-3856.

The Secretive Sora

by Catherine Warwick

One of the birds leaving Calgary this September is the Sora. Were you one of the lucky few who saw it at the North Glenmore storm pond?

A few years ago, I saw one of these charismatic birds in Inglewood, I was with my sister who is not really a birder. The conversation went like this:

(a Sora just casually standing in a pond in full view)

Me: Holy Cow! A Sora! Wow I can't believe it, look at it! Wow! We are so lucky, how rare.

Sister: That's nice.

Me: We are so lucky! This is amazing!

Sister: Uh huh (starts walking).

And yet if she became a birder and started looking for a Sora, it would probably take years to see one. I trolled that North Glenmore Storm Pond so many times this summer and nothing! The Sora is one of those birds only birders know about, even though they are common they are really good at hiding in the reeds.

The Sora is a plump little chicken-like bird that belongs to the Rail family. They frequent ponds and wetlands. The Sora has very long toes that help them walk on floating mats of vegetation. They are grey and brown with an impossibly yellow triangle beak. The first time I saw one at the storm pond I thought it was floating because it was standing in water that came up to its undercarriage. I was flipping through my Sibleys looking for a duck with a yellow triangle beak. The most obvious identifier is their call, a descending laughing sound. Although lately I feel like the Red Wing black birds around the storm pond are mimicking it which has caused me a lot of disappointment. Birding - what a roller coaster!

When a Sora walks it puts its head forward with each step as it looks for aquatic plant seeds or bugs to eat. It's been known to use its long toes to rake the vegetation. Their long legs are great for running away really quickly, often you will just get a glimpse of them. A brown blur with a yellow streak.

Now that it's September, our little storm pond Sora will be departing on a very long journey, possibly as far as South America. They fly further than any other Rail despite their circular form and long legs. Hopefully it is back next year, and I can have another season of attempting to spot the beguiling Sora.

The Birth of Ballet

On October 15, 1581, Catherine de' Medici, the Queen Mother of France, commissioned "Ballet Comique de la Reine" in Paris. The performance depicted the myth of Circe from Homer's Odyssey and is believed to be the first true ballet, combining music, dance, plot, and staging.
